In the small village of Covaners (Spain) there is an amazing underwater passage: Pozo Azul.
With a 700 meters long first sump and more than 3.5 Kilometers long second sump, Pozo Azul is one of the biggest underwater passages of Europe.
Now a group of British, Dutch and Spanish cave divers have decided to continue extending the line. Using avanced breathing apparatus -rebreathers-, underwater vehicles and other innovative equipment, they are determined to go further than anyone... go beyond the limits.
